Tom –

Quick response - If I have to be pinned down to a specific date, I would say August 17th.

In terms of an interim piece, I no longer think this is a good idea.

I don't see much incremental benefit in this since we would be talking about a one-to-two week difference in time. Plus, it will complicate getting the revised draft and response to comments out the door.

Of course, I might be missing something. Let me know if I need to re-think the above and/or if you have any questions.

Dave

Hi Dave, going over time lines w/ Ted, he asked what date we expected to publish the 2nd draft Tech Support Doc.

I told him I thought it was mid August, but has asked for a specific date. He also asked, if it was going to be several weeks from now- if we had decided to get an interim piece out (we had talked about the Exec. Summary)bin order to give interested parties something to review as soon as possible.

Would you please clarify the date we expect to publish the 2nd Draft, and if you think it makes sense to try to publish any interim portion of the Doc.?

- Tom
